STRONGER SHIP SUBSIDY BILL IN THE SENATE

OPENS WHAT MAY BE A LONG AND BITTER FACTIONAL FIGHT

ADMINISTRATION FORCES HAVE SOMEWHAT REJUVENATED CONFIDENCE

OF PUSHING BILL THROUGH THE UPPER HOUSE BEFORE MARCH 4th

(By United Press)

Washington, Dec. 11—A stronger ship subsidy bill was brought before the senate today for action—opening what seems to be a long and bitter struggle between the opposing factions.

Administration forces with a somewhat rejuvenated confidence of pushing the bill through the upper house before March 4th rallied all the forces for the first onslaught. Opponents of the measure on the other hand were preparing for a battle of "resistance," in an effort to delay indefinitely any action if they were unable to muster up votes to connive its open defeat.

The situation as the opening gun was fired appeared to be against carrying out of the tremendous legislative task assigned for this session by President Harding. Republican leaders will be satisfied if they obtain action on a rural credits measure, the appropriation bills, and possibly some railroad legislation. It is the plan of administration groups to lay aside the ship subsidy for the appropriation measures as they come from the house. In this manner they believe they will kill the effectiveness of any filibuster which might be organized against the subsidy.

ENGLISHMAN HEARS YANK SYNCOPATION

(By United Press)

London, Dec. 11—Broadcasting from Newark by wireless telepathy was picked up here and plainly audible today. J. H. Ridley at his residence in Surrey heard the Newark regular program between 2:30 and 4 a. m., Greenwish time. At 3:15 a man sang some lively syncopation to the piano accompaniment, he reported.

At 4 a. m. a deep voiced man with a Yankee accent he said stated "we will meet again at 12:30."

Ridley also heard other American stations calling.

ERIE TRAIN CRASH KILLS ITS ENGINEER

(By United Press)

Binghamton, N. Y., Dec. 11.—Fireman Ed Storrer, of Port Jervis, was killed and Engineer Donald Regon probably fatally hurt when Erie passenger train No. 5, west bound, was wrecked 40 miles west of Port Jervis shortly before midnight.

Engine and tender crashed over a bank, pulling two coaches, two sleepers and a baggage car from the rails.

Relief trains, doctors and nurses and railroad officials were sent to the scene of the wreck. So far as reported, no passengers were seriously hurt.

TO ANNUL BRIMMER WEDDING, TIERNAN AIM

(By United Press)

New York, Dec. 11.—Professor John P. Tiernan, formerly of Notre Dame university, today started suit for annulment of his marriage to Mrs. Blanche Brimmer, his bride of a day.

Tiernan, who returned to his first wife from whom he had sought divorce following a sensational suit involving the paternity of their child, remained in hiding near New York City, but made the announcement through his brother, assistant corporation council here.

Mrs. Brimmer and Tiernan were married a day after the latter was awarded a divorce which later was not upheld.

Teutons To Get "No" To Loan Proposal

KELLER INSISTS THAT CHIEF JUSTICE TAFT APPEAR AS WITNESS AT HEARING

(By United Press)

Washington, Dec. 11.—Efforts by republicans in the house judiciary committee to save Chief Justice Taft the "embarrassment and inconvenience" of appearing as a witness in the Daugherty impeachment hearings starting tomorrow were met today by a declaration from Representative Keller, author of the impeachment resolution, that he will insist upon Taft being summoned.

In a public letter addressed to Chairman Volstead, Keller took the committee to task for alleged general bad faith and criticized it particularly for its failure to include Chief Justice Taft in the first group of witnesses for whom subpoenas were issued Saturday.

DENOUNCES THE REPUBLICAN NATL. ADMINISTRATION

WILLIAM H. JOHNSTON, PRESIDENT OF MACHINISTS, SPEAKS AT CLEVELAND

CONFERENCE WILL FIGHT ANY ATTEMPT TO DO AWAY WITH PRIMARIES

(By United Press)

Cleveland, Ohio, Dec. 11—The republican national administration was denounced by William H. Johnston, president of the International Association of Machinists and chairman of the conference for progressive political action, in the opening session of the conference here today.

Johnston declared that the Harding administration had been "discredited."

Election results this year, Johnston said, rank second only to the declaration of Independence. The address followed a report by the executive committee in which changes in the direct primary were urged.

The conference will fight any attempt by politicians to do away with the primaries, the report showed. The committee advocated a change to allow voters to take part in the primaries without declaring their party affiliations.

Political action through primaries rather than the formation of an independent party will be the course decided upon by the conference which represents the nation's progressives. Johnston said these dangers now confront the country:

1. Private monoply of transportation. Railroad ownership is now complete in all details through leglslative, executive and judicial departments, he said.

2. Rapid concentration of wealth is creating sharp divisions of society into the very rich who are arrogant and unscrupulous and the property less whose ambitions and courage are constantly declining.

3. Money and credit flows only by permission of a small group of super-financiers who dominate international industrial activities.

4. Control of raw materials, machinery and products and unwise regulation of production and distribution of financial products by a dimishing minority.

Johnston charged dishonest propaganda was spread in an attempt to divide city and farm workers, but he said farmers and industrial workers had discovered their joint powers.

200 Delegates Attending

Cleveland, Ohio, Dec. 11—More than 200 delegates from the farmer-labor group, socialists and single tax organizations were here today for the two day session of the conference for progressive political action.

Flushed with victory in various parts of the country in the recent congressional election, the conference will map out plans for perfection of state organizations.

The session also will draft a national platform which is expected to play an important role in the 1924 presidential election.

RAILROAD TONNAGE STEADILY GROWING LARGER, REPORTED

PRESENT HIGH RAILROAD RATES NO LONGER INTERFERE WITH FLOW OF COMMERCE

INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION SUBMITS REPORT TO CONGRESS

(By United Press)

Washington, Dec. 11— Present high railroad rates, bitterly attacked by farm bloc leaders in Congress "no longer interfere with the flow of commerce as a whole," the Interstate Commerce Commission declares in its annual report submitted to Congress.

"The tonnage moved by the railroads has been steadily increasing in recent months, until at the end of the period covered by this report, November 1, the traffic is almost equal to the largest ever handled by our railroads," the report states.

Until earnings by the carriers reach the 5.75 per cent set as "reasonable" by the Commission, there is little prospect of further decreases in rates, the report indicates. Earnings in 1921 were "clearly inadequate," the Commission found. Possibly increased earnings by the roads from the present flood of traffic were absorbed by the commission in the 10 per cent reduction ordered last July, in anticipation of the present increased traffic. The exact effect of this reduction on earnings has not yet been determined by the commission because of the strikes last summer.

Installation of automatic train control devices on railroads is progressing, the report states. Complete installation is not compulsory before January 1, 1925. Tests completed on March 31, last on 276 miles of track, involving 659,875 observations "demonstrated that automatic train control devices have been developed to the point where they are now practicable under actual service conditions, and that when properly installed, they increase the safety of train operation."

"The need for automatic train control devices has been further emphasized since January 1, 1922," the report continues, "by our investigation of six serious train accidents resulting from non-obedience to automatic block signals. These accidents resulted in the death of 50 persons and injury of 488 others. Occurrence of accidents of this character will undoubtedly continue unless automatic devices to compel obedience to signals are installed."

During the past fiscal year, the Commission granted more applications to abandon existing lines than it did petitions to construct new lines, revealing a serious situation. Abandonment of 526 miles was authorized against permission to construct 446 miles. During the present fiscal year, however, applications to construct 2951 miles of line were received against applications to abandon only 808 miles.

Casualties in accidents on steam railroads during the calendar year of 1921, according to the Bureau of Safety of the Commission, amounted to 5587 killed and 43,324 injured. Of this number however, only 205 killed and 5584 injured were listed as "passengers."

ALLIED PREMIERS, "BIG 4" OF EUROPE ANSWER GERMANY

MUSSOLINI OF ITALY SEEKS COUNSEL WITH LAW AT 10 DOWNING STREET

(By United Press)

London, Dec. 11—Germany was to receive today an emphatic "no" to her reparations and loan proposals submitted to the allied premiers conference Sunday.

When the new "Big Four" of Europe, none of whom participated in the Versailles treaty now being revived, met this afternoon, they were to give Germany her answer and continue work upon a reparations plan of their own.

Seeking a common basis for discussion, the prime ministers did not meet formally this morning, but Premier Poincare of France was closeted with Theunis, head of the Belgium delegation at the Ritz, while Benito Mussolini of Italy sought counsel with Bonar Law at 10 Downing Street.

The full conference was to be resumed at 4:15 this afternoon. What Germany's plans, submitted yesterday was, the communique announcing its receipt would not say, but it was understood to renew suggestions for a moratorium and for internal and external loans. It was reported to be accompanied by a note from Chancellor Cuno.

Allied Premiers Adjourn

London, Dec. 11.—The meeting of allied premiers adjourned this afternoon after discussion of the German reparations problem and it was understood no further sessions have been arranged.

The French desire adjournment of the conference for at least a fortnight because of disagreement with Britain over the occupation of the Ruhr valley.

FEUD BREAKS OUT IN KENTUCKY HILLS OVER PROHIBITION

PROHIBITION AGENTS ARE SLAIN FROM AMBUSH SATURDAY AND SUNDAY

DEATHS CLIMAX COUNTY'S LONG WAR AGAINST MOONSHINERS

(By United Press)

Mt. Sterling, Ky. Dec. 11—Federal officials and posses of citizens scoured the hill country of Menifee county today for the slayer of Dave Treadway, 28, prohibition agent.

Treadway was slain from ambush late Sunday as he lead a party of county officials on the trail of moonshiners thought to be responsible for the death of Prohibition Officer Robert Duff, who was also shot from ambush the day before. Treadway fell within a few yards of the spot where Duff was killed.

Treadway's companions said they saw three men dash out of the bushes after the shots which killed him were fired. The death of Duff and Treadway climax the county's long war against moonshiners. It was said the men a few minutes before the shooting had uncovered a still and destroyed 1400 gallons of whiskey mash. They were preparing to leave when the firing began from nearby bushes.

CLAIMED JEALOUSY WAS MOTIVE OF ELSIE SALISBURY IN CRIME CHARGED

(By United Press)

Montevideo, Minn., Dec. 11.—"If Elsie Salisbury had shot Oscar Erickson by accident, she would have rushed to his side when he fell, and helped him," State Senator Oluf Gjerset asserted today as the state closed its case of first degree murder against the girl.

"Instead, this girl sat calmly at her desk and did not move or speak when ohers rushed into the room. Jealousy was the motive."

The state closed its case shortly before noon, and the defense began closing arguments. It is probable the defense will occupy most of the afternoon, and the case will go to the jury late this evening.

Senator Gjerset, Montevideo, in the closing argument for the state painted Miss Salisbury, pretty Milwaukee railroad stenographer, as a designing temptress, whose wiles failed to stir stolid Oscar Erickson, clerk in the railroad offices.

"We have established firmly jealousy as the motive," Senator Gjerset contended. "This girl sought the love of a man in a responsible position and because Erickson paid little heed she became jealous.

"She shot him down in cold blood when his back was turned. If it had been an accident, loving him as she claims she did, she would have rushed to his side to aid him and tell him it was an accident. Instead, she sat coolly by and said nothing. She did not move when he fell, nor did she move or say anything when other employes rushed to his side."

Miss Salisbury, on the stand Saturday, claimed she knew nothing after the first shot was fired, and Erickson fell. She contended it was an accidental shooting, and afterward her mind was a blank.

WILD WEST MOVIE BATTLE IS STAGED IN NEW YORK CITY

GUN BATTLE BETWEEN HOSTILE BANDIT GANGS AT 47th AND BROADWAY

SCORES OF SHOTS EXCHANGED BY COMBATANTS RACING IN AUTOMOBILES

(By United Press)

New York, Dec. 11—A gun battle between two hostile bandit gangs brought hundreds to the street in a panic at 47th St. and Broadway early today.

Scores of shots were exchanged by the combatants who raced about the vicinity in automobiles. The breaking of plate glass windows, mingled with the ratting of guns, and shots, awakened sleepers for blocks. Some one among the men and women who darted about sidewalks and hallways in night clothes as the bullets hummed perilously near put in a riot call for police. When the reserves arrived the bandits fled taking any of the number that might have been wounded with them. Two men, alleged to be gangsters were captured.

Two automobiles, riddled with bullets, were discarded by the thugs. Orders for hospitals to promptly report on gun shot wound cases were issued by police who believe several men were hurt in the fighting.

CLAIMS WAR FRAUD RECORDS ARE MISSING

(By United Press)

Washington, Dec. 11.—The charge that war fraud records in the department of justice had been stolen before the present administration took control, was made on the floor of the house today by Representative Knutson, of Minnesota.

Representative Hill, of Tennessee, demanded to know who had given Knutson the information that the records were missing. Knutson declared "a high official" of the department had told that valuable records in connection with war frauds prosecution were missing and could not be found. He refused to reveal the sources of his information.

Two automobiles, riddled with bullets, were discarded by the thugs. Orders for hospitals to promptly report on gun shot wound cases were issued by police who believe several men were hurt in the fighting.

CLAIMS WAR FRAUD RECORDS ARE MISSING

(By United Press)

Washington, Dec. 11.—The charge that war fraud records in the department of justice had been stolen before the present administration took control, was made on the floor of the house today by Representative Knutson, of Minnesota.

Representative Hill, of Tennessee, demanded to know who had given Knutson the information that the records were missing. Knutson declared "a high official" of the department had told that valuable records in connection with war frauds prosecution were missing and could not be found. He refused to reveal the sources of his information.

AGES LIQUOR 40 YEARS IN A FEW MINUTES

Professor Charles Henry, of Sorbonne, France, and the appartus he has perfected by which he ages liquor in a few minutes. He uses Rumkorff's apparatus by attaching wires to the faucets at both ends of the barrel as shown above. Then he shoots a powerful electric current of from 60,000 to 120,000 volts through the liquor. The tremendous shock instantly removes all impurities without harming the flavor and the liquor is aged to the same degree it would be if it were 30 years old.

The talk of the phonograph world is the new Sonora Queen Anne

The peerless Sonora — THE INSTRUMENT OF QUALITY — CLEAR AS A BELL

Queen Anne

THIS beautiful, rich-toned instrument has won a place of special honor among phonograph experts and owners.

The Queen Anne represents the culmination of years of logical tone development and refinement. It reproduces the shrillest instruments with warmth and mellow beauty, and without a trace of nasal exaggeration (often heard on other phonographs). There is little to choose between the Queen Anne and the higher priced Sonoras except the extra attachments and special refinements of the latter.

Yet this instrument sells for the moderate price of $250. It is the opportunity of every discriminating buyer to obtain a phonograph of priceless satisfaction and life-long pleasure.

MUSICAL CLUB AT M. E. CHURCH

Soloist, Mrs. Eleanor Poehler of Minneapolis, No Stranger to the Large Audience

CHARM AND TALENT COMBINED

Before Her Last Group Mrs. Poehler Told of Her Work as Program Manager of Radio W. L. A. G.

On account of an accident to the heating plant at the Citizen' State Bank building, the Musical club was held at the Mehodist church, on Saturday.

The singer, Mrs. Eleanor Poehler, of Minneapolis, was not a stranger in Brainerd, this being her sixth visit to our city. On former visits she has featured children's songs, but this time the first half of her program consisted of Spanish and French folk songs. Mrs. Poehler's charm of manner was almost equal to her gift of song. She sang as naturally and unaffectedly, as the birds in her opening number "The Birds Praise the Advent."

Her alst group contained a number by one of her old pupils who is now making a great success in New York. The song is dedicated to Mrs. Poehler, and is by Meta Schumann. It is entitled "Thee". She was generous with encores, the most charming one being a children's song that showed her sympathetic understanding of children.

Before her last group, Mrs. Poehler told of her work as program manager for radio station W. L. A. G. She said it was dangerous to get her started on the subject, because she never knew where to stop. She told many interesting anecdotes, one so timely that it demands space. W. L. A. G. station asked for information regarding the whereabouts of Santa Claus, stating that he was last seen on Dec. 25th, 1921, and was headed north. Any information regarding his present abode would be gratefully received at Minneapolis.

She said that almost before she had had time to catch her breath after sending this message (for she personally conducts the Children's Hour) her telephone began to ring and continued to do so every minute for the next hour and a half. Such consternation was never known amongst the radio fans of kindergarten age. "Did she think Santa was really lost?" "Would Santa Claus be found before Xmas.?" "Couldn't Radio find Santa Claus, if it found lost relatives?" And one little boy asked to be notified of Santa Claus' address as soon as he was found, for he had a letter all written to him to warn him not to stumble over the radio, which was attached to the chimney.

The meeting of the Junior Musical on Monday evening, Dec. 11th at the home of Miss Winnifred Spencer was announced. Also the sale of baskets and other woven products made by the Deerwood Sanitarium patients. This will be at Koop hall, in the Business and Professional Women's rooms on Tuesday afternoon, Dec. 12th. This display and sale will be conducted by the social welfare committee of the Musical club, of which Mrs. Mal Clark is chairman.

The women were also asked to be prepared to buy and sell the Xmas seals during the coming week as the health committee, under the able chairmanship of Mrs. J. M. Hayes, will have charge of this work again this year.

Everybody was urged to attend the dinner to be given in the social rooms of the Methodist church on Tuesday evening by the Child Welfare Committee of the League of Women Voters, at which Messrs. Rosenmeier and Scallon will speak.

In fact, Mrs. Poehler must have been reminded of W. L. A. G. since so many important announcements were "broadcasted" between the groups of a fine musical program.

ROMANCES ON S. S. AMERICA

Miss Doris Simoni boarded the S. S. America at Naples and at the end of the first day, was rather well acquainted with Second Captain Gondolin Nicholas. The sixth day out he proposed and just before the ship reached her berth at New York, Miss Mimoni and the captain announced their engagement. "Accepted by wireless" or a radio romance, describes the "affaire de couer" of Miss Velia Fava, who returned to New York on the S. S. America, after a five months pleasure tour abroad. While the ship was yet a few miles out of New York, Miss Fava received a wirelessed proposal from her sweetheart. The radio carried the affirmative reply.

Halloween Superstition.

The old custom of lighting bonfires on Halloween, which was started by the Druid priests, survived in Scotland and Wales until recent years. Small stones were placed in the dying embers, one stone for each person at the bonfire. The ashes were searched the next day and if any of the stones were displaced the person represented was destined to die within a year.

Die-Sinking an Ancient Art.

The art of die-sinking was practiced in Greece by Pyrgoteles in 335 B. C.

Useful Asset.

A famous lawyer was well known as a delightful reconteur. This gift made him not only a welcome guest, but a valuable member of his own home circle, for it is related that at a dinner party, which he was giving to some friends, his old butler whispered to him: "Sir, you must tell another story. The roast won't be ready for another ten minutes."

Hat Stand.

Tall hat stands of black enameled wood painted in gay flowers would brighten up any closet.

FACING FACTS

THE first impression the reader receives from reading the president's message is that it is straightforward and business-like. It is marked by a directness of approach that leaves the impression that the chief executive has thought matters through and is fully prepared to offer recommendations on questions that are calling for the attention of congress.

President Harding faces facts frankly, takes congress into his confidence, directs the nation's attention to certain dangers and offers advice as to how some of the more pressing problems facing the nation may be met successfully. The president did not place the blame for certain of the troubles that have afflicted the country during the past several months on the shoulders of one party to the unfortunate decisions but, on the contrary, he quite frankly stated that the responsibility rested upon both of the parties.

The message wisely called attention to the foreign influences that are playing so large a part in leading foreign elements in the United States away from honest respect for constitutional government into a purposeful attack upon American institutions. There might be some excuse for citizens who, speaking as citizens, invite a change in our system of government, but there is no reason why the American people should sit silently and idly by while aliens who have not become citizens of this country preach the revolutionary doctrines that so many of them propagate. Lodgers are not acting up to form when they deliberately attempt to upset the arrangements of the home in which they may happen to live.

The president's words relative to our relation to other countries are impressive. The position is wisely taken that we can best help the world by attending first to our own pressing problems. The charges that we have withdrawn ourselves from an interest in and helpful relation to the vexed problems of Europe are denied. The message says that while America is not likely to agree to entering into contracts that might call for her use of armed forces, the nation is ready to enter the councils of the nations and to offer her best aid in so meeting situations that arise, that by meeting face to face for mutual discussion of the problems, the representatives of the nations may come to agreements that will obviate the necessity of the use of armed forces.

The message suggests poise and strength behind the affairs of the American people. It offers a constructive program, a program that will make for the conservation of the best interests of the nation, that will promote a steady advance and, by the progress of this advance, will remove some of the grounds for destructive criticism. This steady progress, the president affirms, must be ordered because things will never again be the same as they were before the World war. The president's normalcy therefore, as clearly shown by this message, does not represent a return to the past but a program of normal progress under changed conditions, the normalcy of constitutional and consistent legislation in the face of ever-changing conditions.

TELLING THE TRUTH

DR. CHARLES A. EATON, an authority on industrial relations, speaking in Minneapolis before various organizations, hit the nail on the head when he said: "What we needed to combat the wild-eyed, lying propaganda is that our American men should tell the truth." Wildeyed, propaganda, to use the words of Dr. Eaton, cannot be met by blindeyed propaganda.

This statement deserves attention in the light of what President Harding said in his message relative to those dangerous exponents of communism who take advantage of American hospitality to attempt to overthrow the house in which they have been hospitably received.

One thing is absolutely certain, and Dr. Eaton courageously stated the certainty, lying propaganda can never be successfully met by equally untruthful propaganda. Error, either now or at any time, can only be successfully resisted by truth. Error, always goes down in the presence of truth, when the truth has been fearlessly stated and stated with sufficient frequency so that it has an equal opportunity with the error it must face.

The fact that this man of broad experience found it necessary to make this demand for truth speaking suggests that truth speaking is not any too common. We attempt to meet the arguments of the enemies of the constitution by reiterating half truths. The unpleasant is suppressed, evils are ignored, the flag is waved and the problems are neglected. But the abiding question is: What are the facts?

To overcome the tendencies that are at work in our commonwealth, tendencies that threaten our form of government, American men must take the position assumed by Daniel Webster who, in stating a case to the jury which had to do with wheels, was able to call the attention of the jury to the wheels in the court room, placed there before the case went to the jury, "Gentlemen, here are the wheels." Full truths and not half truths will down error every time. But truth will not be spoken until the seriousness of the menace drives men to speak out, and the half truths have often been spoken so long, as history records, that the truth came too late to save the day.

ULSTER GOES IT ALONE

THE TROUBLED history of Ireland has seen more than one date when the situation was "almost" saved only to be ruined by a small misfortune. Nothing is more to be deplored than the mistake, sometimes insignificant in itself, that leads to the continued prevention of the realization of a people's aspirations. When Parnell had won the attention and affection of his people, and had reached the heart of Britain by an honest appeal, a purely personal episode led to the loss of his usefulness through the repudiation of his leadership.

At this time Ireland might have been starting on a course of steady achievement that would eventually have made her a happy and prosperous commonwealth but the mistaken and misdirected energies of some of her leaders have plunged her into a situation where there is no present hope of a united Ireland.

Whatever may have hindered rapprochement of Ulster and the rest of Ireland in sympathy and purpose in the past, the divisive factor at this time is the economic condition of Southern Ireland. The cost of running the new government, due to the necessity of providing for a strong military force to suppress the unlawful attacks of the Republican minority, is proportionately as high as the amount required to take care of the governmental expenses of Great Britain.

No one could object to the Republican minority agitating for the absolute independence of Ireland, but no one who has a proper respect for government can support the present policy of the minority. This is all the more true when the fight, resulting in loss of life, destruction of property and hindrance of business, is not directed against an old enemy but against native Irishmen who are the elected leaders of the new Irish Free State regularly constituted through processes of law and by the will of the majority of the people.

It is not surprising that Ulster votes herself out of the Free State. To become a party to the present government while this struggle is continued would lead to the assuming of financial burdens that Ulster is unwilling to carry. When this troubled period of Irish history has added another chapter to the painful history of this people who have suffered from without and within, it may be that a united Ireland, happy and contented, will take the place of a land that never through centuries has been without those oppressions and suppressions that have made Ireland the martyr of conflicting interests.

ROTARIANS BROTHER BOYS

To the Rotarians must go much credit for getting the needs of the boys into the thoughts of men. The American Legion has taken up the work of organizing the Scout movement but in doing this they are following the lead of the Rotary clubs of America which have been engaged in this work for a considerable time.

No work could be better worth while. The America of tomorrow will be what these boys of today make it. We may develop resources, but they will be the men who will either conserve or destroy these resources. The human values determine material values. Men make organizations, men function in industry, men determine the destiny of nations, sharing the duties of citizenship as they do with their wives, mothers and sisters.

There is no better task than that of directing the boy, of taking a place beside him as a big brother, of attempting to fortify him to meet the enemies he must face on life's road. A former of character is better far than a reformer of character as a formator is better than a reformatory.

LLOYD GEORGE smiled when Bonar Law said that England could not do other than oppose the attitude of the Greeks who executed the outgoing ministry.

PITY for Elsie Salisbury does not restore her victim. It looks as though memories might exact the full penalty for the crime committed.

HENRY FORD is having a time in getting the use of water power, but Henry, in the end, usually gets what he goes after.

Blue Heron Feeds on Fish.

Some persons call the great blue heron a "squawk-bird," because of its peculiar call, which is a squawk. Others call it a "crane." It is more water-bird than crane, however, and feeds largely on fish.

In the spots from which he has not yet been driven by man and his various noises and methods of destruction, the heron is an industrious and patient hunter. He stalks silently about, or stands rigidly for long periods at a time watching his chances to make a swift and sure lunge with his beak for a frog, a fish, a reptile, or even an occasional mouse.

"The Grace of God."

Grace of God is an expression from the writings of St. Paul, who frequently used the term grace in the sense of a gift which enables those who have it to do that which they could not do without it. The Church of England and the Protestant Episcopal church in the United States teach that grace is the assistance given by God to those who believe in Him, so that they may please Him and keep [illegible] Roman Catholic [illegible]

ANOTHER GAIN FOR SCIENCE!

Information as to Respiration of Insects Said to Have Been Accurately Ascertained.

A scientist abroad has constructed a delicate instrument that registers and measures the respiration of insects. The apparatus is composed of a crystal tube with an aperture in the end. Imprisoned in this, the locust, in the effort to extricate itself, turns over, bringing his thorax immediately under a needle having a ball in the point. In this way, thanks to the ascending and descending movement of the needle working over a lever, the movements of the thorax are registered on a plate or metal leaf. It is thus possible to study attentively the quickness and the length of each breath of the insect and, what is more important, the strength and action. By this means it has been ascertained that insects respire in a manner directly the reverse of human beings. We are required to put the necessary strength into the inspiration, while expelling it is largely automatic. The locust, on the other hand, inhales automatically, but expels with more trouble.

TEST TO PROVE FORTITUDE

Indian "Braves" Subjected to Hideous Torture Before They Were Classed as "Warriors."

The Sun dance was a ceremonial performance in which the young Sioux aspirant gave that final proof of endurance and courage which entitled him to the honors of a full-fledged warrior. One feature of it was the suspension in air of the candidate by a raw-hide rope passed through slits cut in the breast, or elsewhere, until the flesh tore and he fell to the ground. If he fainted, faltered or failed, or even gave way momentarily to his anguish during the suspension he was damned forever after, and was called and treated as a squaw for the rest of his miserable life.

The afterward famous Rain-in-the-Face, in submitting to this test, hung suspended for two days with the raw-hide rope through deep slits in his back over the kidneys, while he taunted his tormentors, and sang his war songs, and boasted of his deeds. The tough flesh muscles and tendons would not tear loose. Buffalo skulls were tied to his legs and the added weight finally enabled the Indian stole to break free.

Truthfulness.

I cannot help telling the truth as I view it, describing what I see. To describe it otherwise than it seems to me would be falsehood in that calling in which it has pleased heaven to place me; treason to that conscience which says that men are weak, that truth must be told, that faults must be prayed for, and that love reigns over all.—Thackeray.

SALE OF IRON ORE PROSPECTING PERMITS
Covering State Lands

Notice is hereby given that up to 10 o'clock A. M. on Jan. 8th, 1923, in the State Auditor's Office, State Capitol, Saint Paul, Minnesota, under the provisions of Chapter 412, Laws 1921, I will receive sealed bids for permits to prospect for iron ore on state lands or lands in which the state has an interest, except lands situated under the waters of any public lake or river. At said hour such sealed bids will be opened and permits awarded to the highest bidders.

All applications for permits must be accompanied by certified check made payable to the state treasurer in the sum of $50.00 for each mining unit applied for and be accompanied by a sealed bid setting forth the amount of royalty per ton the applicant proposes to pay to the state in case his bid for such permit be accepted and a mineral lease issued thereunder. Such sealed bids shall also be accompanied by a certified check payable to the state treasurer in the sum of $200.00 as a guarantee that the applicant will carry out and perform in good faith all his covenants and agreements set forth in the permit. The sealed bids shall have plainly marked on the envelope containing the same the name of the applicant, the date of the application, the date received by the State Auditor and class of mineral land involved. The bids shall be made in such manner only as to clearly indicate the amount intended to be offered, but no bid shall be accepted which does not equal or exceed the minimum royalty per ton as set forth in said Chapter 412.

The right to reject any and all bids is reserved to the State.

FACING FACTS

THE first impression the reader receives from reading the president's message is that it is straightforward and businesslike. It is marked by a directness of approach that leaves the impression that the chief executive has thought matters through and is fully prepared to offer recommendations on questions that are calling for the attention of congress.

President Harding faces facts frankly, takes congress into his confidence, directs the nation's attention to certain dangers and offers advice as to how some of the more pressing problems facing the nation may be met successfully. The president did not place the blame for certain of the troubles that have afflicted the country during the past several months on the shoulders of one party to the unfortunate decisions but, on the contrary, he quite frankly stated that the responsibility rested upon both of the parties.

The message wisely called attention to the foreign influences that are playing so large a part in leading foreign elements in the United States away from honest respect for constitutional government into a purposeful attack upon American institutions. There might be some excuse for citizens who, speaking as citizens, invite a change in our system of government, but there is no reason why the American people should sit silently and idly by while aliens who have not become citizens of this country preach the revolutionary doctrines that so many of them propagate. Lodgers are not acting up to form when they deliberately attempt to upset the arrangements of the home in which they may happen to live.

The president's words relative to our relation to other countries are impressive. The position is wisely taken that we can best help the world by attending first to our own pressing problems. The charges that we have withdrawn ourselves from an interest in and helpful relation to the vexed problems of Europe are denied. The message says that while America is not likely to agree to entering into contracts that might call for her use of armed forces, the nation is ready to enter the councils of the nations and to offer her best aid in so meeting situations that arise, that by meeting face to face for mutual discussion of the problems, the representatives of the nations may come to agreements that will obviate the necessity of the use of armed forces.

The message suggests poise and strength behind the affairs of the American people. It offers a constructive program, a program that will make for the conservation of the best interests of the nation, that will promote a steady advance and, by the progress of this advance, will remove some of the grounds for destructive criticism. This steady progress, the president affirms, must be ordered because things will never again be the same as they were before the World war. The president's normalcy therefore, as clearly shown by this message, does not represent a return to the past but a program of normal progress under changed conditions, the normalcy of constitutional and consistent legislation in the face of ever-changing conditions.

TELLING THE TRUTH

DR. CHARLES A. EATON, an authority on industrial relations, speaking in Minneapolis before various organizations, hit the nail on the head when he said: "What we needed to combat the wild-eyed, lying propaganda is that our American men should tell the truth." Wildeyed, propaganda, to use the words of Dr. Eaton, cannot be met by blindeyed propaganda.

This statement deserves attention in the light of what President Harding said in his message relative to those dangerous exponents of communism who take advantage of American hospitality to attempt to overthrow the house in which they have been hospitably received.

One thing is absolutely certain, and Dr. Eaton courageously stated the certainty, lying propaganda can never be successfully met by equally untruthful propaganda. Error, either now or at any time, can only be successfully resisted by truth. Error, always goes down in the presence of truth, when the truth has been fearlessly stated and stated with sufficient frequency so that it has an equal opportunity with the error it must face.

The fact that this man of broad experience found it necessary to make this demand for truth speaking suggests that truth speaking is not any too common. We attempt to meet the arguments of the enemies of the constitution by reiterating half truths. The unpleasant is suppressed, evils are ignored, the flag is waved and the problems are neglected. But the abiding question is: What are the facts?

To overcome the tendencies that are at work in our commonwealth, tendencies that threaten our form of government, American men must take the position assumed by Daniel Webster who, in stating a case to the jury which had to do with wheels, was able to call the attention of the jury to the wheels in the court room, placed there before the case went to the jury, "Gentlemen, here are the wheels." Full truths and not half truths will down error every time. But truth will not be spoken until the seriousness of the menace drives men to speak out, and the half truths have often been spoken so long, as history records, that the truth came too late to save the day.

ULSTER GOES IT ALONE

THE TROUBLED history of Ireland has seen more than one date when the situation was "almost" saved only to be ruined by a small misfortune. Nothing is more to be deplored than the mistake, sometimes insignificant in itself, that leads to the continued prevention of the realization of a people's aspirations. When Parnell had won the attention and affection of his people, and had reached the heart of Britain by an honest appeal, a purely personal episode led to the loss of his usefulness through the repudiation of his leadership.

At this time Ireland might have been starting on a course of steady achievement that would eventually have made her a happy and prosperous commonwealth but the mistaken and misdirected energies of some of her leaders have plunged her into a situation where there is no present hope of a united Ireland.

Whatever may have hindered rapprochement of Ulster and the rest of Ireland in sympathy and purpose in the past, the divisive factor at this time is the economic condition of Southern Ireland. The cost of running the new government, due to the necessity of providing for a strong military force to suppress the unlawful attacks of the Republican minority, is proportionately as high as the amount required to take care of the governmental expenses of Great Britain.

No one could object to the Republican minority agitating for the absolute independence of Ireland, but no one who has a proper respect for government can support the present policy of the minority. This is all the more true when the fight, resulting in loss of life, destruction of property and hindrance of business, is not directed against an old enemy but against native Irishmen who are the elected leaders of the new Irish Free State regularly constituted through processes of law and by the will of the majority of the people.

It is not surprising that Ulster votes herself out of the Free State. To become a party to the present government while this struggle is continued would lead to the assuming of financial burdens that Ulster is unwilling to carry. When this troubled period of Irish history has added another chapter to the painful history of this people who have suffered from without and within, it may be that a united Ireland, happy and contented, will take the place of a land that never through centuries has been without those oppressions and suppressions that have made Ireland the martyr of conflicting interests.

ROTARIANS BROTHER BOYS

To the Rotarians must go much credit for getting the needs of the boys into the thoughts of men. The American Legion has taken up the work of organizing the Scout movement but in doing this they are following the lead of the Rotary clubs of America which have been engaged in this work for a considerable time.

No work could be better worth while. The America of tomorrow will be what these boys of today make it. We may develop resources, but they will be the men who will either conserve or destroy these resources. The human values determine material values. Men make organizations, men function in industry, men determine the destiny of nations, sharing the duties of citizenship as they do with their wives, mothers and sisters.

There is no better task than that of directing the boy, of taking a place beside him as a big brother, of attempting to fortify him to meet the enemies he must face on life's road. A former of character is better far than a reformer of character as a formator is better than a reformatory.

LLOYD GEORGE smiled when Bonar Law said that England could not do other than oppose the attitude of the Greeks who executed the outgoing ministry.

PITY for Elsie Salisbury does not restore her victim. It looks as though memories might exact the full penalty for the crime committed.

HENRY FORD is having a time in getting the use of water power, but Henry, in the end, usually gets what he goes after.

Blue Heron Feeds on Fish.

Some persons call the great blue heron a "squawk-bird," because of its peculiar call, which is a squawk. Others call it a "crane." It is more water-bird than crane, however, and feeds largely on fish.

In the spots from which he has not yet been driven by man and his various noises and methods of destruction, the heron is an industrious and patient hunter. He stalks silently about, or stands rigidly for long periods at a time watching his chances to make a swift and sure lunge with his beak for a frog, a fish, a reptile, or even an occasional mouse.

"The Grace of God."

Grace of God is an expression from the writings of St. Paul, who frequently used the term grace in the sense of a gift which enables those who have it to do that which they could not do without it. The Church of England and the Protestant Episcopal church in the United States teach that grace is the assistance given by God to those who believe in Him, so that they may please Him and keep [illegible] Roman Catholic [illegible]

ANOTHER GAIN FOR SCIENCE!

Information as to Respiration of Insects Said to Have Been Accurately Ascertained.

A scientist abroad has constructed a delicate instrument that registers and measures the respiration of insects. The apparatus is composed of a crystal tube with an aperture in the end. Imprisoned in this, the locust, in the effort to extricate itself, turns over, bringing his thorax immediately under a needle having a ball in the point. In this way, thanks to the ascending and descending movement of the needle working over a lever, the movements of the thorax are registered on a plate or metal leaf. It is thus possible to study attentively the quickness and the length of each breath of the insect and, what is more important, the strength and action. By this means it has been ascertained that insects respire in a manner directly the reverse of human beings. We are required to put the necessary strength into the inspiration, while expelling it is largely automatic. The locust, on the other hand, inhales automatically, but expels with more trouble.

TEST TO PROVE FORTITUDE

Indian "Braves" Subjected to Hideous Torture Before They Were Classed as "Warriors."

The Sun dance was a ceremonial performance in which the young Sioux aspirant gave that final proof of endurance and courage which entitled him to the honors of a full-fledged warrior. One feature of it was the suspension in air of the candidate by a raw-hide rope passed through slits cut in the breast, or elsewhere, until the flesh tore and he fell to the ground. If he fainted, faltered or failed, or even gave way momentarily to his anguish during the suspension he was damned forever after, and was called and treated as a squaw for the rest of his miserable life.

The afterward famous Rain-in-the-Face, in submitting to this test, hung suspended for two days with the raw-hide rope through deep slits in his back over the kidneys, while he taunted his tormentors, and sang his war songs, and boasted of his deeds. The tough flesh muscles and tendons would not tear loose. Buffalo skulls were tied to his legs and the added weight finally enabled the Indian stoic to break free.

Truthfulness.

I cannot help telling the truth as I view it, describing what I see. To describe it otherwise than it seems to me would be falsehood in that calling in which it has pleased heaven to place me; treason to that conscience which says that men are weak, that truth must be told, that faults must be prayed for, and that love reigns over all.—Thackeray.

SALE OF IRON ORE PROSPECTING PERMITS
Covering State Lands

Notice is hereby given that up to 10 o'clock A. M. on Jan. 8th, 1923, in the State Auditor's Office, State Capitol, Saint Paul, Minnesota, under the provisions of Chapter 412, Laws 1921, I will receive sealed bids for permits to prospect for iron ore on state lands or lands in which the state has an interest, except lands situated under the waters of any public lake or river. At said hour such sealed bids will be opened and permits awarded to the highest bidders.

All applications for permits must be accompanied by certified check made payable to the state treasurer in the sum of $50.00 for each mining unit applied for and be accompanied by a sealed bid setting forth the amount of royalty per ton the applicant proposes to pay to the state in case his bid for such permit be accepted and a mineral lease issued thereunder. Such sealed bids shall also be accompanied by a certified check payable to the state treasurer in the sum of $200.00 as a guarantee that the applicant will carry out and perform in good faith all his covenants and agreements set forth in the permit. The sealed bids shall have plainly marked on the envelope containing the same the name of the applicant, the date of the application, the date received by the State Auditor and class of mineral land involved. The bids shall be made in such manner only as to clearly indicate the amount intended to be offered, but no bid shall be accepted which does not equal or exceed the minimum royalty per ton as set forth in said Chapter 412.

The right to reject any and all bids is reserved to the State.

The limitations and requirements as to the purchasers of permits are as set forth in Sec. 5 and 6, of said Chap 412, which sections are hereby referred to and made a part of this notice.

The general terms and conditions of permits and mining leases are as set forth in Sections 5, 6 and 7, of said Chap. 412, which sections are hereby referred to and made a part hereof.

Lists of lands showing classes and arrangements of mining units, together with blanks and general information covering the subject of permits and leases, including copies of said Chapter 412, Laws 1921, may be had at the office of the State Auditor, Saint Paul, Minnesota

AN EARLY CHRISTMAS IN MINNESOTA WILDS

LIEUT. PIKE CELEBRATED DAY IN 1805 NEAR PRESENT SITE OF BRAINERD

On December 25, 1805, not far from the present site of Brainerd, Lieutenant Zebulon Pike and his soldiers celebrated Christmas by advancing three miles on their exploratory journey into the wilderness of Northern Minnesota.

In the journal of the expedition, written by its famous leader, there is only a brief entry for December 25, 1805, but it calls up before the imagination an interesting picture of a small band of American soldiers who were penetrating into that lonely wilderness of Minnesota before its metamorphosis into a land teeming with the white man's cities, farms, gardens and civilization. "Marched, and encamped at 11 o'clock," wrote Pike. "Gave out two pounds extra of meat, two pounds extra of flour, one gill of whiskey, and some tobacco, to each man, in order to distinguish Christmas Day; distance advanced three miles."

The Pike expedition, including its commander and twenty soldiers, left St. Louis on August 9, 1805, on a trip to the sources of the Mississippi. Late in September the party reached the site of the future city of Minneapolis and on October 16, not far from the present city of Little Falls, the building of a fort was begun. With sleds and a piroque "towed by three men," Lieutenant Pike and his force set out in December for the fur-trading posts at Sandy Lake and Leech Lake, reaching the former on January 8. In February the explorer arrived at what he believed was "the upper source of the Mississippi," Cass Lake. Not until April 30, 1806, did Pike return to St. Louis, his starting point. The story of the expedition is told in an absorbing chapter in Dr. William W. Follwell's recently published History of Minnesota.

FOUNDED COMPANY

Late Charles F. Welles Organized Brainerd Lumber Company in Minneapolis

An obituary of Charles F. Welles, Minneapolis lumberman, contains the mention that he was one of the founders of the Brainerd Lumber company and was active in the lumber business in Minnesota until his retirement in 1904. He was born in Wethersfield, Conn., in 1843.

He entered the lumber field in Iowa after his service in the Civil war. In 1893 he came to Minneapolis and organized the Brainerd Lumber company. He was interested also in the North Star Lumber company, and the Welles-Thompson Lumber company. Mr. Welles was a member of the Minneapolis, Minikahda and Lafayette clubs.

A son, Leonard Welles, and a daughter, Mrs. Roy N. Pierson, and eight grandchildren survive.

INDOOR CARNIVAL

Committees Busy With Plans of Women's Guild of St. Paul's Episcopal Church

Committee are meeting nearly every night, busy with the plans and preparations for the coming indoor carnival which the Women's Guild of St. Paul's Episcopal church is to put on December 15th and 16th.

This will be a much larger affair than perhaps the public realizes. A. C. Ebert is in the cities now, picking out the very best talent that can be obtained to supplement the work of local performers.

The ladies are keeping their needles flying to prepare plenty of beautiful articles for the fancy work booth, a place sure to be the rendezvous of every woman who attends the carnival.

Mrs. C. D. Johnson is in charge of the doll booth, and has practically completed the dressing of the little ladies in the season's latest syles.

It is also planned to put on a short, snappy vaudeville sketch each evening, using home talent and plenty of local color. It will be a laugh feature from start to finish.

While this is designated as an indoor carnival, still there will be outside free attractions so cleverly planned that those who see them will be anxious to visit the big show in the main tent.

Since it was announced that a carnival queen is to be chosen from among Brainerd's beautiful women, a large percentage of the ladies of the city have been spnding nearly all of their time before the mirror, so that competition in this contest is sure to be very keen.

The proceeds from this carnival will go toward paying for the new basement which has just been completed, and upon which a fine church edifice will be erected in the near future. The cause is a worthy one, and it is hoped that the public will patronize the carnival very liberally.

MENIAL JOBS FOR LOS ANGELES SPEEDERS

Out in Los Angeles the judges are getting after the boys who break the speed limits of that fair city. Not only are the offenders fined, but jail sentences as well are plastered on the unfortunates. Cleaning up the jail, washing floors and the like are all part of the dirty work the prisoners are directed to do. Maybe that'll help them to remember not to break the speed limit again.

TWO NEW STYLES OF FORDS

Roadster and a Four-Door Sedan are Shown by the Woodhead Motor Co.

The Woodhead Motor Co., is showing two new styles of Ford cars, a roadster and a four-door sedan.

The new sedan is built along entirely different lines from the former model. It is four inches longer, two inches wider and two inches lower. The body is built entirely of aluminum, and is 80 pounds lighter than the old type of sedan.

This body is built in the Lincoln Motors factory. The top is of the same material as that used in the Lincoln closed car, and the interior hardware is identical to that of the Lincoln.

The new sedan is equipped with heavy crown fenders, sun and rain visor on windshield, dome light, Yale locks on doors and anti-rattlers on all windows. The entire front seat is in one section, and is wide enough to accomodate three persons.

The roadster has a new deck on the rear designed like that of the coupe. It comes equipped with one-man top, gypsy side curtains and slanting windshield. The seat is wider and of a new design.

These new models are creating much interest. It is agreed by all who see them that they are much improved in appearance over former body types, and have several better riding qualities.

Crossed Ocean in Small Boat.

The first crossing of the Atlantic in a small boat was made by Henry May, who was wrecked on the then uninhabited Bermuda islands in 1522. He built himself a little boat out of the wreck of his ship, and actually reached England in safety.

Early Canadian Insurrection.

In the latter part of 1837 there was an insurrection in Canada. A portion of the people, dissatisfied with the British government, broke out in revolt, and attempted to establish their independence.

The insurgents found much sympathy and encouragement in the United States. Seven hundred men from New York seized and fortified Navy island, in the Niagara river. The loyalists of Canada attempted to capture the place, but failed. They succeeded, however, in firing the Caroline, the supply ship of the adventurers, cut her moorings and sent the burning vessel over Niagara falls.

President Van Buren issued a proclamation of neutrality, forbidding interference with the affairs of Canada. The New York insurgents on Navy island were obliged to surrender, and order was restored.

The Modern Child.

Reading about the two little English girls who, according to Conan Doyle, discovered real fairies in the woods we were reminded of another child because he was so different. Robert, the four-year-old son of a scientific man, had lived in the country most of his short life. One day a visitor, wishing to make friends with the little fellow, took him on his knee and asked, "Are there any fairies in your woods here, Robert?"

"No," responded the child promptly, "but there are plenty of edible fungi!"

Bright Idea.

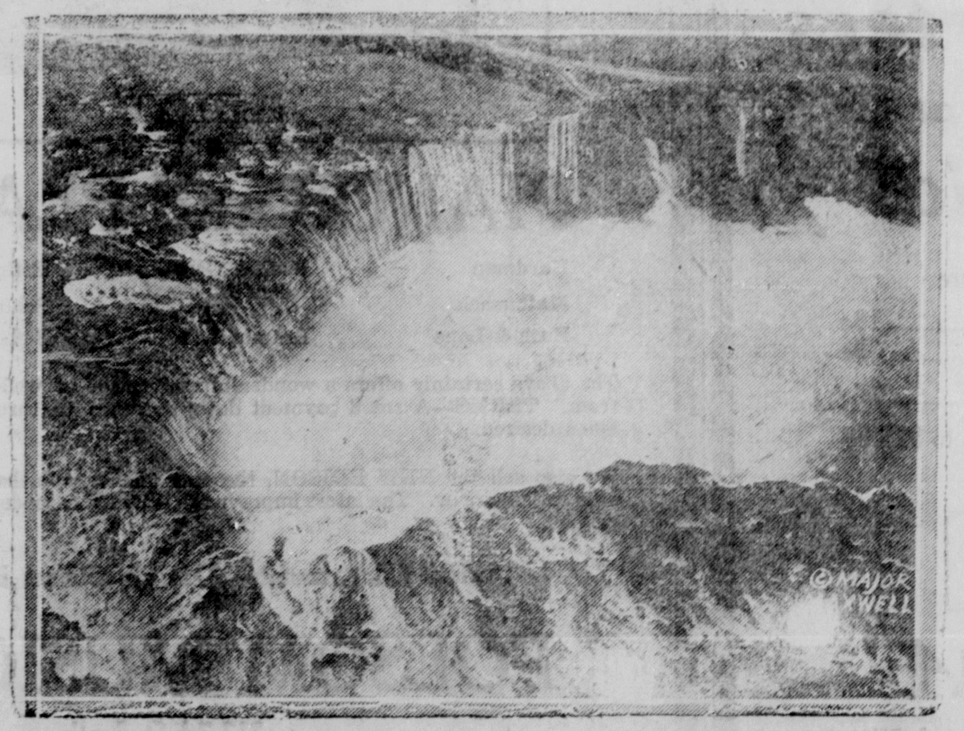

The performance at a crowded picture theater had just concluded.

Round the exits there was the usual crush to get outside.

"This crush is a nuisance," complained a disheartened one, sinking into a seat beside a man who had retained his place to wait until the press was over.

"It is," assented the comfortable one. "If only everybody would do like me—sit still until all the others had got out—there wouldn't be a crush at all."

Most Remarkable Photo Ever Taken of Niagara Falls

This extraordinary picture, made by Major Hamilton Maxwell, from an Aeromarine flying boat, gives us the same view of the "Horseshoe of the American continent's good luck" as the birds get—showing the entire cataract, the Canadian falls in the background; and the American Falls in the foreground.

MUCH-CLOTHED VAG GIVEN 24 HOURS TO SETTLE ELSEWHERE

Minneapolis, Dec. 11th—Edward Lande, transient, won the barbed-wire suspenders at police headquarters last night as Minneapolis' warmest-dressed man. But he's never qualified for the order of the bath.

A patrolman brought him in as a vagrant, apparently a 300-pounder. Examination in jail showed Lande wore six heavy suits of underwear, three pairs of trousers, four vests, five shirts and two pairs of wool socks—all ragged and dirty. That wasn't all, the stuff was sewed on, and had to be cut off with a knife.

"Judge," said Lande in court today, "look at me. I weigh 120 pounds. I can't get a job this way. I had to put on all that stuff to look husky. If you let me go I'll go back to Brainerd."

He was given 24 hours to get out of town.

FOUNDED COMPANY

Late Charles F. Welles Organized Brainerd Lumber Company in Minneapolis

An obituary of Charles F. Welles, Minneapolis lumberman, contains the mention that he was one of the founders of the Brainerd Lumber company and was active in the lumber business in Minnesota until his retirement in 1904. He was born in Wethersfield, Conn., in 1843.

He entered the lumber field in Iowa after his service in the Civil war. In 1893 he came to Minneapolis and organized the Brainerd Lumber company. He was interested also in the North Star Lumber company, and the Welles-Thompson Lumber company. Mr. Welles was a member of the Minneapolis, Minikahda and Lafayette clubs.

A son, Leonard Welles, and a daughter, Mrs. Roy N. Pierson, and eight grandchildren survive.

INDOOR CARNIVAL

Committees Busy With Plans of Women's Guild of St. Paul's Episcopal Church

Committee are meeting nearly every night, busy with the plans and preparations for the coming indoor carnival which the Women's Guild of St. Paul's Episcopal church is to put on December 15th and 16th.

This will be a much larger affair than perhaps the public realizes. A. C. Ebert is in the cities now, picking out the very best talent that can be obtained to supplement the work of local performers.

The ladies are keeping their needles flying to prepare plenty of beautiful articles for the fancy work booth, a place sure to be the rendezvous of every woman who attends the carnival.

Mrs. C. D. Johnson is in charge of the doll booth, and has practically completed the dressing of the little ladies in the season's latest syles.

It is also planned to put on a short, snappy vaudeville sketch each evening, using home talent and plenty of local color. It will be a laugh feature from start to finish.

While this is designated as an indoor carnival, still there will be outside free attractions so cleverly planned that those who see them will be anxious to visit the big show in the main tent.

Since it was announced that a carnival queen is to be chosen from among Brainerd's beautiful women, a large percentage of the ladies of the city have been spnding nearly all of their time before the mirror, so that competition in this contest is sure to be very keen.

The proceeds from this carnival will go toward paying for the new basement which has just been completed, and upon which a fine church edifice will be erected in the near future. The cause is a worthy one, and it is hoped that the public will patronize the carnival very liberally.

MENIAL JOBS FOR LOS ANGELES SPEEDERS

Out in Los Angeles the judges are getting after the boys who break the speed limits of that fair city. Not only are the offenders fined, but jail sentences as well are plastered on the unfortunates. Cleaning up the jail, washing floors and the like are all part of the dirty work the prisoners are directed to do. Maybe that'll help them to remember not to break the speed limit again.

TWO NEW STYLES OF FORDS

Roadster and a Four-Door Sedan are Shown by the Woodhead Motor Co.

The Woodhead Motor Co., is showing two new styles of Ford cars, a roadster and a four-door sedan.

The new sedan is built along entirely different lines from the former model. It is four inches longer, two inches wider and two inches lower. The body is built entirely of aluminum, and is 80 pounds lighter than the old type of sedan.

This body is built in the Lincoln Motors factory. The top is of the same material as that used in the Lincoln closed car, and the interior hardware is identical to that of the Lincoln.

The new sedan is equipped with heavy crown fenders, sun and rain visor on windshield, dome light, Yale locks on doors and anti-rattlers on all windows. The entire front seat is in one section, and is wide enough to accomodate three persons.

The roadster has a new deck on the rear designed like that of the coupe. It comes equipped with one-man top, gypsy side curtains and slanting windshield. The seat is wider and of a new design.

These new models are creating much interest. It is agreed by all who see them that they are much improved in appearance over former body types, and have several better riding qualities.

Crossed Ocean in Small Boat.

The first crossing of the Atlantic in a small boat was made by Henry May, who was wrecked on the then uninhabited Bermuda islands in 1522. He built himself a little boat out of the wreck of his ship, and actually reached England in safety.

Early Canadian Insurrection.

In the latter part of 1837 there was an insurrection in Canada. A portion of the people, dissatisfied with the British government, broke out in revolt, and attempted to establish their independence.

The insurgents found much sympathy and encouragement in the United States. Seven hundred men from New York seized and fortified Navy island, in the Niagara river. The loyalists of Canada attempted to capture the place, but failed. They succeeded, however, in firing the Caroline, the supply ship of the adventurers, cut her moorings and sent the burning vessel over Niagara falls.

President Van Buren issued a proclamation of neutrality, forbidding interference with the affairs of Canada. The New York insurgents on Navy island were obliged to surrender, and order was restored.

The Modern Child.

Reading about the two little English girls who, according to Conan Doyle, discovered real fairies in the woods we were reminded of another child because he was so different. Robert, the four-year-old son of a scientific man, had lived in the country most of his short life. One day a visitor, wishing to make friends with the little fellow, took him on his knee and asked, "Are there any fairies in your woods here, Robert?"

"No," responded the child promptly, "but there are plenty of edible fungi!"

Bright Idea.

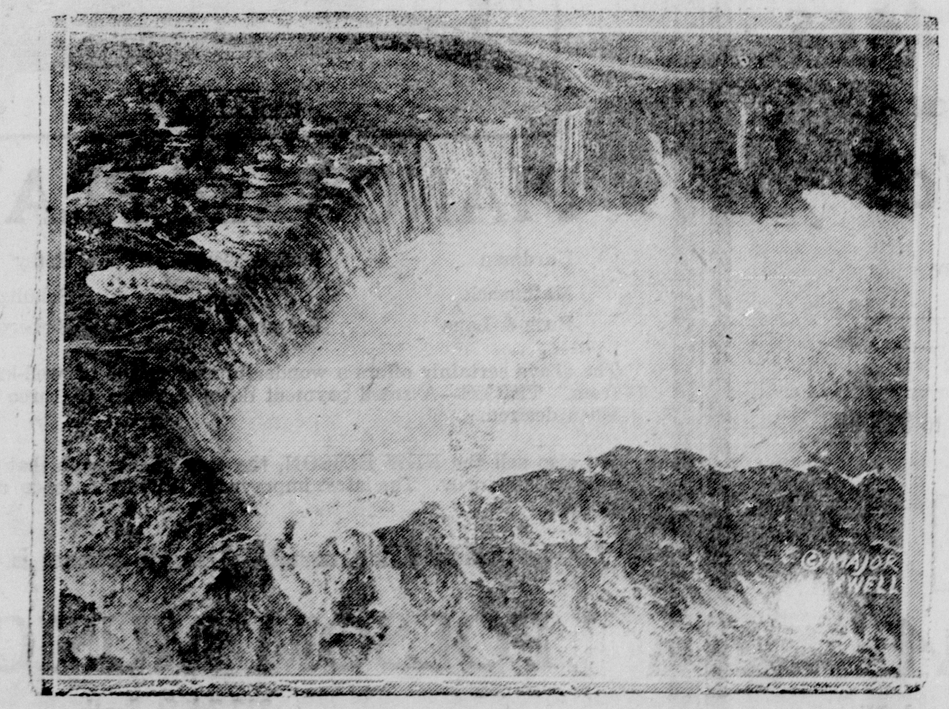

The performance at a crowded picture theater had just concluded.

Round the exits there was the usual crush to get outside.

"This crush is a nuisance," complained a disheartened one, sinking into a seat beside a man who had retained his place to wait until the press was over.

"It is," assented the comfortable one. "If only everybody would do like me—sit still until all the others had got out—there wouldn't be a crush at all."

Most Remarkable Photo Ever Taken of Niagara Falls

This extraordinary picture, made by Major Hamilton Maxwell, from an Aeromarine flying boat, gives us the same view of the "Horseshoe of the American continent's good luck" as the birds get—showing the entire cataract, the Canadian falls in the background; and the American Falls in the foreground.

MUCH-CLOTHED VAG GIVEN 24 HOURS TO SETTLE ELSEWHERE

Minneapolis, Dec. 11th—Edward Lande, transient, won the barbed-wire suspenders at police headquarters last night as Minneapolis' warmest-dressed man. But he's never qualified for the order of the bath.

A patrolman brought him in as a vagrant, apparently a 300-pounder. Examination in jail showed Lande wore six heavy suits of underwear, three pairs of trousers, four vests, five shirts and two pairs of wool socks—all ragged and dirty. That wasn't all, the stuff was sewed on, and had to be cut off with a knife.

"Judge," said Lande in court today, "look at me. I weigh 120 pounds. I can't get a job this way. I had to put on all that stuff to look husky. If you let me go I'll go back to Brainerd."

He was given 24 hours to get out of town.

NEW LEGISLATORS AT DINNER TUESDAY

E. P. Scallon, Representative-at large elect, to Speak on Child Welfare Topic

SEN. ROSENMEIER SPEAKS TOO

Both to Address League of Women Voters and Friends Following Supper at M. E. Church

(Contributed)

On Tuesday evening, December 12 at 6 p. m. the new legislators-elect E. P. Scallon of Crosby and C. Rosenmeier of Little Falls will be guests of the Child Welfare Committee League of Women Voters at a dinner at the Methodist church. This dinner is open to all, both men and women. Tickets may be obtained at Dunn's drug store or reservations made by phoning Mrs. Newman, 666-J.

There will be a few brief after dinner speeches. Community singing will be led by Mrs. Erickson. At 7:30 Mr. Scallon will give an informal alk on Child Labor bringing us the latest news on this vital subject. Mr. Rosenmeier will talk on some proposed child welfare legislation for the coming session of the state legislature.

The Brainerd League of Women Voters is extremely fortunate to have with them these gentlemen before they begin their arduous duties at the state capitol and all lovers of children will appreciate their interest in the subjects to be presented. They were able to come to us at this time; and what time more fitting than the Christmas season, to pause and consider and lend our influence and backing to those matters which have to do with the happiness of very great numbers of children in our state and in the United States. They do not mean just passing pleasure, candy or toys, but have to do with their very life. Those who cannot come to the dinner are invited to be present at 7:30 in the church auditorium. Pupils of the 7th and 8th grades and of the high school are invited also to attend. The following is the menu for the dinner:

Roast Pork and Brown Gravy ...
Mashed Potatoes Apple Sauce
Pickles
Parker House Rolls
Cake Coffee

A Washington man, visiting Richmond, took a great fancy to a bright-eyed little darky who polished his shoes. Shortly after he became interested in the little chap, the Washington man asked his name.

"Gen, suh," was the reply.

After a few moments of silence the Washingtonian continued, "I suppose that is an abbreviation for General?"

The word "abbreviation" stumped the little fellow for a while, but he recovered himself. "No, suh," he said, "it ain't exactly that. My shore-enough name is Genesis xxx, 33. So shall my righteousness answer for me in time to come Washington Jones, but they jest calls me Gen fo' sho't."—Philadelphia Ledger.

LEARN FACTS ABOUT STEEL

Interesting Discoveries Concerning Most Useful Metal, That Have Recently Been Made.

Very fascinating are the unsolved problems of metallurgy which were discussed at a recent meeting of an institution of civil engineers.

There is a common carbon steel which, when heated to 725 degrees centigrade and quenched in brine bends on becoming cold, 43 degrees, and possesses the hardness number 228 on the Brinnell scale. If heated only ten degrees higher, to 735 degrees, and then quenched and cooled, it bends only 1½ degrees and its hardness becomes 512. Finally, when the heat is increased another 5 degrees, to 740 degrees, the effect is that the steel will not bend at all and its hardness number rises to 713.

All these results are produced by a range of temperature less than that experienced by the air on an ordinary spring day. There is a steel containing 20 per cent of nickel which is almost non-magnetic and has a tenacity of 40 tons per square inch. If immersed in liquid air it becomes strongly magnetic and its tenacity rises to 115 tons. Then, after returning to ordinary temperature, it retains a tenacity of 115 tons.

RELATIVES DIED WITH CUSTER

Many Members of the Famous Soldier's Family Lost Their Lives in the "Massacre."

In the battle of the Little Big Horn, popularly known as the "Custer Massacre," in the government's campaign against the Sioux Indians in the summer of 1876, and in which, besides Gen. George A. Custer, every man in his command lost his life, several near relatives of Custer were among the killed.

With Custer in that memorable fight was his brother, Capt. Tom Custer, the only man in the United States army who held two medals for capturing two flags with his own hands in the Civil war. After the battle the Sioux chief, Rain-in-the-Face, made good a previous threat, and accomplished a terrible revenge for an old grievance against Captain Custer by cutting open the breast of the brave young soldier and eating his heart. Calhoun, a brother-in-law of the general, was among the slain, as was Boston Custer, another brother of the general, who was civilian forage master of the Seventh cavalry, and Autie Reed, the general's nephew—a mere boy, who wanted to see something of life in the West, and who had welcomed with joy this opportunity to make the campaign.

Learned Barbarisms.

The use of Greek or Latin roots from which to form new words, required by the advance of scientific knowledge, is almost universal among learned men. On the whole the practice is useful, but it can be carried to absurdity. Dr. Brudenell Carter, the English oculist, in one of his books protests against doctors who air their supposed acquirements by coining horrible verbal compounds that are usually intended to express very simple conditions.

I have, he writes, seen dacryocystosyringokatakleisis used to express obstruction of the tear duct, and amphiblestroicitis to express inflammation of the retina of the eye. I once met a country cabinetmaker who built wooden frames, covered with needlework, to protect polished fenders against the feet. He sought a name for his contrivance from the local schoolmaster, who furnished him with antitribospodothecidion and with a literal translation—an against-friction-of-the-ashes receptacle!—Youth's Companion.

Paradise of Departed Heroes.

The way in which the departed Scandinavian heroes passed their time in Valhalla, or in the palace of Odin, is described in several places in the Edda.

They have every day the pleasure of arming themselves, marshalling themselves in military order, engaging in battle, and being all cut to pieces; but when the stated hour of repast arrives their bodies are reunited, and they return on horseback safe to the hall of banquet, where they feed heartily on the flesh of a boar and drink beer out of the skulls of their enemies, until they are in a state of intoxication. Odin sits by himself at a particular table. The heroes are served by the beautiful virgins named Valkirie, who officiate as their cupbearers. But the pleasures of love do not enter at all into the joys of this extraordinary paradise.

Made No Hit That Night.

A certain actor, who walked across the stage in a street scene of a third-rate drama, was very fond of telling his friends what he would accomplish when he had a speaking part. No matter how small it was, he would show them what real acting meant.

Eventually his opportunity came. He was to appear in one of the scenes and say two words—"It is."

For three weeks, nightly, before his mirror he rehearsed; trying all sorts of gestures, expressions and tones until he felt perfect.

The eventful night arrived when the curtain was to rise on the new play for the first time, and the actor impatiently awaited his cue. It came: "And so this is the end?"

With his best tragedian air he stalked to the center of the stage and in a voice of thunder cried: "Is it?"

TORTURE APPLIED TO FEET

Modern Pedal Coverings, According to Physician, Among the Greatest of Physical Sins.

In a long range of what Herbert Spencer called physical sins, foot sins loom up as the stupidest and least excusable of which man is guilty. If men and women were born with the wretched appliances they call shoes they would have a right to raise their voices in lamentation over the cruelty of Nature in afflicting them with such a burden. Is it not a strange paradox that we should glory in our scientific ingenuity that has enabled us to construct the flying machine while we have lost the art of walking correctly and making our feet and legs really dependable as instruments of locomotion? asks Eugene Lyman Fisk, M. D., in the Health Builder. If we were simply aspiring to fly and ultimately abandon the use of our lower limbs, that would be a consistent program. But why insist upon encasing our feet in deforming appliances? Why not use reasonable intelligence in walking when in the rare intervals of flying or whizzing around on wheels in various types of conveyances we actually condescend to come into contact with the earth?

SMILE ALWAYS WORTH WHILE

London Writer Undoubtedly Is Correct When He Declares There Is Magic in It.

The anonymous writer who supplies "A Woman's Causerie" to the Saturday Review in London, pays this tribute to the woman who smiles:

"Wherever she goes she is met by welcoming faces and gracious acts; even a head waiter will leave the pompous politician to find her a pleasant table, and will daily in suggesting food that may tempt her.

"In shops she waves aside the tired girl, 'Don't worry about me, I have plenty of time,' with a look that makes the girl scramble to serve her other customers to be quickly ready to attend to her.

"For her there is always a seat in an omnibus or a train, and porters never grumble at the weight of her boxes, for being as she is, she takes care that they are not of a back-breaking size.

"Her path in life, in spite of sorrows and difficulties, is, on the whole, an easy one, because she radiates happiness wherever she goes and the reflection of it is in everything around her."

Concerning Moonlight.

It is probable that few persons are aware of the fact that the full moon gives several times more than twice the light of the half moon. They may be still more surprised to learn that the ratio is approximately as nine to one!

Stebbins and Brown, taking advantage of the extreme sensitiveness to light of a selenium cell, measured the amount of light coming from the moon at different phases, with the result above mentioned. The reason for the remarkable difference shown is to be found in the varying angles of reflection presented by the roughened surfaces of our satellite to the sun. The moon is brighter between first quarter and full than between full and last quarter. The cause of this is evident in the more highly reflective character of that part of the moon that lies west of its meridian.

Daddy's Occupation.

It was the first day of school and the teacher was taking the names of the children, those of their fathers and the business of each one. Small Lucy gave her name and that of her father, but hesitated and became silent when it came to his business. Urged by the teacher, she blushingly said: "He is Aunt Jane that does the woman's page and the beauty column of the newspaper."

Nature Has Made Provision.

Man cannot take enough nitrogen from the air to affect nature's balance. Growing plants and animals, by the most remarkable harmonic processes in nature, maintain the proportion, oxygen in 100 pounds of air 23 and nitrogen 77. Man cannot disturb this ratio by little nitrogen concentrators.

SMILE ALWAYS WORTH WHILE

London Writer Undoubtedly Is Correct When He Declares There Is Magic in It.

The anonymous writer who supplies "A Woman's Causerie" to the Saturday Review in London, pays this tribute to the woman who smiles:

"Wherever she goes she is met by welcoming faces and gracious acts; even a head waiter will leave the pompous politician to find her a pleasant table, and will daily in suggesting food that may tempt her.

"In shops she waves aside the tired girl, 'Don't worry about me, I have plenty of time,' with a look that makes the girl scramble to serve her other customers to be quickly ready to attend to her.

"For her there is always a seat in an omnibus or a train, and porters never grumble at the weight of her boxes, for being as she is, she takes care that they are not of a back-breaking size.

"Her path in life, in spite of sorrows and difficulties, is, on the whole, an easy one, because she radiates happiness wherever she goes and the reflection of it is in everything around her."

Concerning Moonlight.

It is probable that few persons are aware of the fact that the full moon gives several times more than twice the light of the half moon. They may be still more surprised to learn that the ratio is approximately as nine to one!

Stebbins and Brown, taking advantage of the extreme sensitiveness to light of a selenium cell, measured the amount of light coming from the moon at different phases, with the result above mentioned. The reason for the remarkable difference shown is to be found in the varying angles of reflection presented by the roughened surfaces of our satellite to the sun. The moon is brighter between first quarter and full than between full and last quarter. The cause of this is evident in the more highly reflective character of that part of the moon that lies west of its meridian.

Daddy's Occupation.

It was the first day of school and the teacher was taking the names of the children, those of their fathers and the business of each one. Small Lucy gave her name and that of her father, but hesitated and became silent when it came to his business. Urged by the teacher, she blushingly said: "He is Aunt Jane that does the woman's page and the beauty column of the newspaper."

BUSY SUNDAY FOR THE POLICE

Home of O. F. Guilmette Raided and Police Claim Finding Six Quarts of Home Brew

GUILMETTE IS FINED $100

Kindred Hotel Raided and 12 Players and Four Spectators Brought to Court

The police department put in a very busy Sunday evening, which netted a good haul, thirteen being haled into municipal court this morning.

Under the direction of Chief of Police Erick Graff, the department raided the home of O. F. Guilmette, 1220 South 6th street at 6:30 last evening, upon the information that liquor was being sold at this premises.

After a long search, it is alleged, six quarts of the home brew were found, by taking up some boards in the floor and locating an L shaped tunnel just large enough to permit a man's arm to reach through.

In municipal court this morning, Guilmette was found guilty and fined $100 under the new city ordinance recently put into effect. A stay of 30 days was given, the defendant being released under $100 bonds.

At midnight Sunday night, the police raided the Kindred hotel, where a poker game was reported in progress. Twelve men were found in a room on the third floor, eight being players, and four composing an interesting group of spectators.

In court this morning all were found guilty. The players were fined $25 each, the on-lookers $15 apiece.

The number picked up in this raid included F. E. Krueger, George Swanson, E. Emerson, Oscar Johnson, O. H. Gram, Jim Gravell, Jake Hass, F. Hass, R. Holman, P. E. Schwendeman, C. B. Weber and Dave Barry.

iJm Gravell, F. Hass, P. E. Schwendeman and C. B. Weber constituted the spectators. Dave Barry, accused of conducting the game, plead not guilty, and his trial will come up Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock.

CHAMBER COMMERCE RAISING OF DUES

Matter is Receiving Much Comment, Favorable and Otherwise, Action Taken Soon

CIRCULAR LETTER SENT OUT

Question of the Increase Comes Up at Next Meeting of Chamber, December 13

(Contributed)

The matter of raising the dues of the Chamber of Commerce is receiving a great deal of comment, favorable and otherwise. Several plans of increasing the yearly dues have been advanced, the most popular seems to be to change from ten dollars per year to four dollars per quarter.

It is admitted by all that the present rate is the smallest in force by any similar organization in the state for a city the size of Brainerd, and it has been proven that the club's work cannot be carried on from the revenue received at $10 per member.

To feel out the sentiment of the members, a circular letter was sent out, and an answer received from F. L. Barber, of Chicago, who has a summer home east of Brainerd, is reproduced below, clearly showing the stand which he takes in the matter.

"Gentlemen: I have received your circular of the 24th in reference to the increase in membership dues.

"It seems to me that the Association is sufficiently important that the railroad companies and larger business firms would be sufficiently interested to buy the more important employees one or more memberships to take care of the expense.

"If this cannot be done, or other memberships added, I believe it would be better to increase the dues so that the deficiency will be taken care of instead of assessments at the end of each year.

"I have always been interested in Brainerd and hope to see it a town big encugh so that we can have all the real city things."

The question of increasing the dues comes up at the regular meeting on Wednesday night, and it is hoped that there will be a large number present to help in disposing of the matter.

AN APPRECIATION OF MRS. BADEAUX

She and Her Husband Removed to Brainerd in 1886; Lived Here Ever Since That Period

WAS WOMAN OF HIGH IDEALS

Her Life was Fraught With Noble Deeds and She Ministered Whenever She Found Need

Last Friday night near the midnight hour there passed out from this life one of Brainerd's pioneer women, Mrs. Laura A. Badeaux, the beloved wife of George S. Badeaux. Mrs. Badeaux was born in Chicago, Ill., June 12, 1850, and at htat time Chicago was but a village. She was married in Chicago and in her young womanhood joined the Methodist church there during the Moody and Saukey meetings. Mr. and Mrs. Badeaux moved to Brainerd in 1886, 36 years ago, and have lived here ever since.

It may be said of Mrs. Badeaux that she was one of those choice characters, quiet and unassuming, yet possessing rare qualities of genuine womanliness and Christian motherhood. She was a woman of ideals that were of hte highest mould to which all who knew her could testify. She was a home body, she lived for her girls and boys. Her family was her constant thought and devotion and their success and achievements were her joy and happiness. Mrs. Badeaux was a studious woman. She was a reader of books, she had a wide knowledge of literature. She was kind and considerate of others. Her life was fraught with noble deeds and she ministered whenever she found need.

She will be missed by the family and by a host of friends who believed in her and loved her.

She lived to the age of 73. Then the end came quietly. She was conscious almost to the last and then she slept peacefully away and awoke to meet her Savior in her heavenly home.

The funeral service was held at the home in Northeast Brainerd Monday afternoon, Dec. 11, at 2:30 o'clock, the Rev. Arthur C. Smith of the First Baptist church officiating.

At the time of her death all of the children were at her bedside except Mrs. James P. Gough, of Portland, Oregon. Mrs. Eleanor E. Robinson, of Nenanne, Alaska, was here with her husband, R. I. Robinson. The other children are: Dr. G. I. Badeaux, of Brainerd; Mrs. J. A. Thabes and Willard Badeaux, of Duluth.

Mrs. Badeaux leaves beside her children, her husband, George S. Badeaux.

DISTRICT COURT TAKES A RECESS

Judge W. S. McClenahan Adjourns for the Holidays, May Resume After First of Year

DIVORCE CASE GOES OVER

Court Grants Request in Case of Hermann vs Hermann, Extension to January

District court has been given a recess until after the holidays. No date has been set for its reopening, but it is understood that it will be soon after the first of the year.

The case of Herrmann against Herrmann, a divorce action, which was started a few days ago, several days extension of time was requested and granted by the court. Upon the expiration of this time, a further extension was asked, and the case was put over, with others remaining, until court convenes in January.

The case of the State against Frank Stimach, in which the defendant was found guilty of burglary in the third degree and sentenced to the reformatory at St. Cloud, the court suspended sentence on condition of good behavior. Stimach is to report monthly to the sheriff, and to the court at its opening in May of next year.

Frank Barchie, alias Mike Brletic, who after two trials was found guilty of robbery in the first degree, was given an indeterminate sentence at Stillwater. In Barchie's first trial the jury disagreed, which necessitated a second hearing of the case.

TALKING CHANGES IN FOOTBALL COACHES

By HENRY L. FARRELL
United Press Sports Editor

New York, Dec. 11.—Despite the disappointing showing made by a Yale eleven that was expected to be one of the best ever turned out at New Haven, few close to the athletic inside at Yale expect the scalp of Tad Jones to be exacted as a penalty for the disappointment.

The impression seems general among other coaches and critics in the east that Jones did well with the material he had at his disposal. He taught them sound football and gave them good plays, but he couldn't put football instinct in heads where it didn't seem to exist.

The material looked fine when it started the season and it still looks good for next year, but the brain cannot be judged from the outside. Only actual combat brings out an athlete's ability to think quickly and judge wisely.

In conflict, the Yale team seemed to possess everything below the shoulders.

* * * * * * * *

Something was radically wrong with that Yale team. In four major engagements against Iowa, Army, Princeton and Harvard, Yale was able to score only one touchdown. Also Yale hasn't made a touchdown against Harvard since 1916.

* * * * * * * *

Harvard started out like the most powerful team in the east, but it slumped badly late in the season and lost to Princeton and Brown. However, the Crimson got sweet satisfaction out of the season by a victory over Yale.

Because a big eastern coach loses one or two important games, it is generally predicted that he will lose his job.

Rumors were out before the Yale game that Bob Fisher would be succeeded next year as the director of the Harvard coaching system.

Harvard laughed at the report and Fisher smiled—making it unanimous.

* * * * * * * *

Just as the close of the baseball season brings gossip annually about numerous changes in management, so the termination of the football season gives rise every year to reports of many switches in coaches.

It has been reported that Bill Roper will not return to Princeton next year—not that Roper hasn't been considered as a huge success in handling the Tigers, but because he is said to be considering retirement by the pressure of outside business.

Roper has been paying a great deal of attention to politics in Philadelphia and he has a good law practice. The reports have it that he is to be appointed to a responsible government position and that he will retire from football this winter.

* * * * * * * *

Hugo Bezdek, whose great success with football, basketball and baseball at Penn State has given him the rank of one of the best all round coaches in the east, is considering an offer to manage the Philadelphia Nationals.

Bezdek had a swing at major league baseball as the manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates and while he was not there long enough to test his ability, he is generally given credit for laying the foundation for the present good team in Pittsburgh.

* * * * * * * *

Earl "Greasy" Neale has announced that he will not return to Washington and Jefferson next year. He complained that he wasn't being given the proper cooperation by the faculty and he wants to get the job at Columbia made vacant by the resignation of Buck O'Neil.

* * * * * * * *

Washington and Jeff wants Knute Rockne, one of the greatest coaches in the country and he has been given a very flattering offer. He is regarded so highly at Notre Dame, however, that the offer probably will be equalled or exceeded by the Hoosier University to retain him in charge of athletics.

"The Middleman"

Tickets for the "Middleman" have been on sale now only a week and the sales committee reports more than half of the tickets have been passed out. The "Middleman" will be prseented at the New Park theatre on Tuesday evening, December 19th and those who intend seeing this play should secure their tickets now so that reservations may be made and thereby assure the patron a good seat.

In addition to the members of the K. of C. from whom tickets may be bought, a supply of these advance tickets have also been placed on sale at Dunn's drug store, Oberst and Durham shoe store, Alderman-Magnahan Company hardware store and B. C. McNamara's gift shop.

Mr. Sears, the director, is very much pleased with the progress made by the cast and is confident that the show will go over bigger and better than ever.

"The Unloved Wife"

"What makes 'The Unloved Wife,' the new three act play such a phenomenal success?" This question is often asked. The question is always the same, but the answers vary. One playgoer will contend that it is the wonderful personification of the young wife, "Cicely Courtney" that makes the play such a gripping success. Another will suggest it is the brilliant comedy. Still another that it is its deep humanity—its appeal to the heart. The play will be seen at the Park Theatre, matinee and night, Monday, Dec. 11, with matinee for ladies only, although at night everybody over the age of 16 can secure seats. Special arrangements are being made to accommodate theatregoers sure to be attracted by this excellent production as the original distinguished cast will be seen here together with the same production now creating a furore all over the country.

The story of the play is told in three acts by Florence Edna May, the authoress, with a force and frankness so direct, the play is produced with such decidious delicacy, and the portrayal of the heroine "Cicely Courtney" is done with such a depth of understanding and emotion that the performance takes rank as one of the most notable in recent years. The cast includes names familiar along Broadway, the production has been made and staged under the personal supervision of Florence Edna May, the authoress, which is in itself a guarantee that the work has been well done.

"The Storm," the attraction which has won widespread commendation as the outstanding screen success of the year, comes to the Lyceum theatre tonight for an engagement of two days matinee and night. An all-star cast, headed by House Peters, makes the screen version of Langdon McCormick's world famous play, an artistic triumph that holds the spectator spellbound. Virginia Valli and Matt Moore play the chief supporting roles. In fact this stellar trio carry the burden of the majority of the scenes.

Photoplay critics in New York, Chicago, and other metropolitan cities have been unanimous in their praise of the greatness of this Universal-Jewel and Manager Hiller of the Lyceum is to be congratulated upon showing it here.

SAGE TEA DARKENS HAIR TO ANY SHADE

Don't Stay Gray! Here's an Old-time Recipe That Anybody Can Apply

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and attractive. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied, with wonderful effects.

But brewing at home is mussy and out of date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get this famous old preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two it becomes beautifully dark and glossy. Adv.
